

Mitchell Keynoter At Co-op Institute

MAGUIRE OFFERS F.B.I. FACILITIES

Special Agent Maguire, Administrative Assistant to J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, speaking before the first regular meeting of the new Town Council, described the advantages and facilities that the Department of Justice can offer Greenbelt. He also commended Yale B. Huffman very highly on his fine record in the National Police Academy Course which Officer Huffman has just completed.

Mr. Braden announced that Officer Panagoulis has completed the course of instruction at the Institute for Training in Municipal Administration, sponsored by the International City Managers' Association.

Recognition was also accorded to Assistant Fire Chief Walker for completing the Firemen's Training Course at the University of Maryland and the Red Cross courses in first aid and advanced first aid, and to Officers Panagoulis and Attick who have completed the Red Cross course in first aid.

Architects Like Color in Greenbelt

Color and variety in the buildings here attracted the approval of an international group of visitors who know good housing when they see it.

The occasion was the visit of delegates to the International Institute of Architects, who convened last week in Washington at the Mayflower Hotel. The large group which visited Greenbelt was conducted around by O. Kline Fulmer, himself an architect by profession. Mr. Fulmer says he found their comments most interesting. Heart-warming indeed to a man who participated in the birth of the town were their remarks about the houses themselves. They marveled at the effect achieved with cinder block and flat-topped roofs, two of the media most difficult for the architect to use. The general appearance and size of Greenbelt drew admiring comment from them, particularly the effect of variety achieved by the coloring and grouping of the houses, and this in spite of the necessarily standardized row character of the dwelling units.

The well kept grounds and gardens were particularly noted. Several asked for copies of the town plan.

The remarks of a Japanese architect were interesting. He commented on the fact that Americans and Europeans customarily use an eight foot ceiling, whereas his countrymen build houses with ceilings at ten feet, a costly and impractical custom. What makes this practice most peculiar is the fact that the Japanese people themselves average about a foot less in height than Americans and other western people.

Dr. George S. Mitchell, Assistant Farm Security Administrator, will give the keynote address at the opening of the two-day meeting of Greenbelt's Second Annual Cooperative Institute, this Saturday afternoon at 3:15 in the Auditorium, according to the official program just released by the Program Arrangements Committee. Dr. Mitchell's address will follow directly after the opening ceremonies, which include a concert by the Fifth Battalion, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Band, and short official meetings by Mayor Henry H. Maurer, Sulo Laakso, General Manager Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., and Walter R. Volckhausen, Chairman, Cooperative Organizing Committee. Roy S. Braden, Town Manager will speak briefly on "The Interest of the Farm Security Administration in Cooperative Projects."

Dr. Mitchell has studied at universities both in this country and abroad. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford for the three years ending in 1929, has taught at Columbia University for six years, and has been associated with Farm Security since 1935. He is an authority on labor conditions in the South.

Also featured on the two-day program of the Institute, the theme of which is "Greenbelt's Place in Cooperative America," and which will include a recreational program of old-time dancing, community singing, and stunts, is an impressive list of prominent speakers.

Two community suppers are to be served, the first Saturday evening by the Community Church Women; the second Sunday evening by the Catholic Ladies Club.

The Institute will close with an Interfaith Meeting on Cooperatives arranged by the Permanent Conference on Religious Life in Greenbelt, with talks by leaders of the different faiths in Greenbelt and a concert by the Mt. Pleasant Congregational Church Choir.

See page 9 for complete program of the Institute.

BRYANT WILL ATTEND POSTMASTERS CONVENTION

Mr. George W. Bryant, Greenbelt Postmaster, will attend the thirty-ninth National convention of the National Association of Postmasters to be held in Washington on October 10-12, according to an announcement from his office. Several thousand postmasters from all over the country will be present, and an elaborate program of meetings, banquets, balls, excursions, and sightseeing trips is being planned. At the convention banquet on Thursday evening, October 12, will be seated more than three thousand officials, delegates, and visitors—the largest banquet ever served in Washington. Postmaster General James A. Farley will be speaker of the evening, his speech being broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup.

Mrs. Bryant will pinch hit for Mr. Bryant at the local post office during his absence.

Activity at the credit union office over the drug and variety store has recently approached record proportions, Mr. Wilde states. Two weeks ago, when the government pay day fell on Friday, the double influx of members resulted in a turnover of approximately $2,000. Business was brisk from 6:30 to 11:30 P.M.; it was 1:00 A.M. before the books were balanced and the credit union workers went home.

After two years of existence the credit union has 530 members and cash assets of $12,000. Members may borrow sums at an interest rate of 1% per month on the unpaid balance of their loan. Payments on loans are usually made monthly or semi-monthly according to an arrangement between the borrower and the credit committee.

MALKINS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Martha and Leon Malkin, 15-C Ridge Road and their little girl, Sidney, are recovering this week after being treated by candlelight in the Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, Maryland, following an auto accident on University Lane Saturday night.

The car was driven by Mrs. Anne Nusbaum, sister-in-law of Mrs. Malkin and the other occupants of the car were Minnie Nusbaum, mother, and Rose and Hannah Nusbaum, sisters of Mrs. Malkin. Mrs. Malkin is suffering from severe bruises and cuts on the face and shock, Mr. Malkin has a fractured knee and cut above the eye, Sidney has a broken leg. The other occupants suffered broken bones, cuts and bruises.

Physicians had just begun treatment of the injured when the electrical storm put electric lights out of order throughout the Takoma Park-Silver Springs area. Wounds were dressed by candle light and flashlight until the Takoma Fire Department arrived and set up a battery of flood lights.

The accident occurred as the Malkins and their relatives were driving home from Washington through the heavy traffic which followed the football game at the University of Maryland. Their car, crowded off the pavement, went out of control in the soft shoulder and struck a tree. They were taken to the hospital by the Bladensburg Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Malkin is on the Board of Directors of the Greenbelt Health Association.

20 Help Collect Share Payments

To complete the C.O.C. Membership campaign 20 volunteers are canvassing the town this week under the direction of Tessim Zorach. November 1 has been set as the deadline in the drive for completing payments on shares, although both the purchase of new shares and payment on old shares will be allowed after that date.

The C.O.C. has been divided into squads, and every member with one or two assistants has been authorized to accept payments towards the membership shares which will secure eventual ownership of Greenbelt's business enterprises.

Participating in the drive are the following:

Bernard Jones, James J. Lehman, Paul Dunbar, Joe Comproni, Mrs. Carnie Harper, Howard Custer, Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Mrs. G. R. Seybold, Cyril S. Turner, Peter Carroll, George Tretter, Mrs. C. B. Richie, Joseph P. Loftus, Elmer Schwab, Walter Volckhausen, Joseph Bargas, Allen S. Arness, Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, Elmer Sherman and Leonard Buck.

Robert Lee Kincheloe
Minister to the Greenbelt Community Church

The Permanent Conference on Religious Life in Greenbelt is in action again! This Sunday evening there are coming to our Community speakers from New York City, Baltimore, Washington and environs. Four men, leaders in their respective Faiths, will briefly address an eager assemblage. It is heartening to feel—as evidenced from the large audience at the last Symposium on Religion and Social Justice—that people are deeply concerned here about problems that are common to the four religious groups in Greenbelt and problems that are pertinent to people's religious convictions. It is also gratifying to know that there are folk, not otherwise interested in the religious institutions of our town, who have been impressed with the efforts the Permanent Conference has made and is making towards bringing about a more sympathetic understanding among the members of the various churches. These same people are impressed with the fact, too, that the Conference stands for practical religion—the urge to make Christ's ideals and the ideals of the Prophets operative in all phases of life. We of the Conference believe that faith, practical good-will and justice and sympathetic understanding of people cannot possibly be restricted to the activities of one day a week. As one American sage puts it, "I believe we should remember the week-day to keep it holy."

KEEP THIS DATE OPEN—Sunday evening, 8:00 P.M., October 8—AND COME TO THE SYMPOSIUM IN THE COMMUNITY AUDITORIUM ON "RELIGION AND COOPERATIVES."

There is a man whose spirit has transcended this sphere who would be whole-heartedly behind this Symposium, and I want him to speak to the readers of this column as only he can speak. This is the closing paragraph which Edward A. Filene gave in a radio address on Cooperatives:

"We have been disciplined by work. You must school yourselves to rise beyond mere work. We have been disciplined by scarcity. You must school yourselves to solve the problems of abundance. We have been disciplined by the struggle to get ahead of others. You must learn how to get ahead with others. We have been disciplined by the conflict which we thought would never end—the conflict of man against man. We have now reached a time, however, when that war must end, else the machinery we have developed will become machinery of destruction—used to halt the upward march of the human race. It is up to you, therefore, to learn a new way of life—a way of human peace, of human cooperation and of human kinship—which we of the older generations can scarcely comprehend. We who are about to die salute you! Long live the onward-marching human race."

VISITING ARCHITECT SUFFERS FATAL HEART ATTACK

Arthur Remick, a New York City architect, who was touring Greenbelt with the delegation from the Washington Conference of the American Institute of Architects, suffered a fatal heart attack as he was about to board the bus returning his party to Washington.

Mr. Remick, who was about 64 years of age, was attended by Dr. Joe W. Still, local co-director of the Greenbelt Health Association within five minutes of his seizure, was pronounced dead on arrival of coronary thrombosis.

VOLUME 3 NUMBER 10

Many of the trees that line the paths to Indian Springs have been chipped and scarred. So have trees, benches, and tables at the picnic grounds. But even more than this—

I have seen boisterous young fellows running about the grounds with their fellows, over uneven slopes, with hatchets hung loosely over shoulders, blades uncovered and pointing toward their necks. And I have seen a close circle of boys around a tree stump—watching two of their number raining blows of their hatchets into the stump, raising and dropping the blades as rapidly as they could. Any sort of a slip could hardly have failed to hurt someone.

A hatchet is potentially a dangerous weapon. Any parent, or leader of boys, who is in any way responsible for letting such an instrument get into unsupervised hands of a boy until he has demonstrated he possesses the necessary skill and good judgment is certainly grossly negligent in the discharge of his responsibility to the boy and to society.

Second Co-op Institute

To our distinguished guests and many friends who are joining us this week for Greenbelt's second Co-operative Institute we offer our heartiest welcome. Greenbelt has already earned a reputation as a friendly town. Out-of-towners will be shown each minute detail of our community with a pride which may be almost amusing.

We are sold on the Greenbelt idea—otherwise we would not stay here. Some of us are more enthusiastic than others. Possibly that is because many of us never before tried living in a cooperative way. From Babyhood most of us have grown up in a competitive world where we had to fight someone else for everything we wanted. It takes time to learn that more can be obtained by fighting together than by fighting each other.

We are sorry to be so slow in organizing our consumer cooperative to take over the stores. The Credit Union and the Health Association are the only two cooperatives we have here so far. The need for education has been most apparent to those who have worked so willingly through these difficult months of the organization period. That is why we are sponsoring this Institute, and that is why every person who has read down this far is obligated to bring his neighbor with him when he comes to the Institute sessions Saturday and Sunday.

The Right To Gripe

Freedom to criticize is a cherished right in any democracy.

Unfortunately the right to criticize easily becomes a license to gripe. (We refer to that colloquialism which means to growl or grumble without definite reason or cause.) Criticism carries with it at least an implication of the existence of a better way of doing things, and although it may be both bitter and destructive criticism is always definite enough to be met and answered. And in that answer lies the improvement and progress which is the really cogent reason for our constant defense of the right to criticize.

We also maintain the right to gripe, but it may be worth while to point how little purpose this type of complaining serves, and how self-defeating it can become as a habit.

Criticism coming from someone with a record of achievement carries definite weight and influence. Backed up by suggestions and concrete proposals criticism is welcomed in any community of fair minded persons. Made in a spirit of tolerance and helpfulness it is doubly-welcome. This, we must keep in mind is complaint by a specific person to a specific person about some definite thing. John Jones thinks the club dues are too high, and says so at a monthly meeting. Sam Smith believes the present ball field is unsatisfactory and tells the Town Council his own ideas of what should be provided. Bob Black thinks this editorial misses the point entirely and tells the editor where it could have been improved.

The "griper", however, is vague in his complaint and confides in his neighbors or total strangers but seldom to the person who could remedy the wrongs he gripes about. Joe Grumble tells his new neighbors that the club is lousy.....Joe doesn't go to the meetings. Sam Smart tells everybody at the office in town that Greenbelt has a terrible ball field. Bob Blow informs any bus passengers who will listen to him that the COOPERATOR is a silly sheet that he never takes time to read.

A YEAR AGO

(From the COOPERATOR October 6, 1938)

Henry H. Maurer was elected Mayor of Greenbelt, and Sherrod East, Mayor pro tem.....

Greenbelt elected a woman, Ruth Taylor as a member of the town council.....

Greenbelt lost two of its leading and most active citizens last Friday when Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rider moved into Washington.....

Councilman Allen Morrison refused the raise voted to council members by the council on the basis that others in the community did as much to improve it although receiving no pay.....

Fourth newswriting class of the course offered by the COOPERATOR begins promptly at 7:30 Saturday evening, October 14 (instead of October 7), in room 202 over the Variety Store. "Story Structure" will be the topic.

A short staff meeting will be held following the class period. The office is open now every evening but Sunday and Tuesday.

This week's candidate for the Poison Ivy Club is the guy who sits in his car every morning at 7:45 and honks his horn in front of a certain house on Ridge Road.

Dissatisfaction with things as they are is always a healthy sign. We should never allow ourselves to become smug and satiated with our own success. But when we criticize let's do it with a purpose and make our complaints to someone who can correct whatever is wrong. As we said before, we defend the right to gripe—but we don't think much of anyone who takes advantage of it.

Letters to Editor

SCHEDULED MEETINGS

To the Editor:

We would like to ask the residents of Greenbelt to again consider their requirements in scheduling all meetings to be held in the Community Building.

Our policy on this has been to require a week's notice previous to the time of meetings. We have instructed the janitors not to allow meetings to be held unless previously scheduled. A phone call to myself or my secretary at any time from 9 to 4:30 o'clock is all that is required to schedule meetings in the Community Building.

With 25 to 30 different organizations holding meetings at irregular times, coupled with special groups, which require additional service, you can readily realize that our problem of keeping this schedule straight is not an easy one, therefore, we request your consideration and cooperation in this matter.

— O. Kline Fulmer,
assistant manager.

QUIET, PLEASE!

To the Editor:

How nice it would be if the children on Saturday would not make so much noise at the movie.

If they would be like gentlemen and ladies, it would be nice.

Thank you.

— Miss Constance Carroll

Leaders, Friends Send Greetings For Institute

Henry H. Maurer, Mayor of Greenbelt:

I would like to take this opportunity, as Mayor of the Town of Greenbelt, to commend the Educational Committee of the C.O.C. and those persons assisting this committee in bringing the Cooperative Institute to Greenbelt. I believe that a study of cooperatives presented in this manner will do more toward rounding out a complete education in the subject than could be obtained any other way; and I would like to urge all citizens to take advantage of this educational opportunity.

Roy S. Braden, Greenbelt Town Manager:

We note with a great deal of satisfaction that Greenbelt is to have another Cooperative Institute. This provides an excellent opportunity for our people to hear many distinguished people in the cooperative world, and we hope that the Institute will be well attended. The Management will cooperate in any way possible to make the Institute a success.

Walter R. Volckhausen, Chairman, Cooperative Organizing Committee:

I should like to take this opportunity to express the appreciation and the enthusiasm of the Cooperative Organizing Committee for the Cooperative Institute Planning Committee, under the leadership of Louis Bessemer and Tessim Zorach, with the able and untiring assistance of Mrs. Carnie Harper and Howard Custer.

This, our second Cooperative Institute, coming at a time when our local consumers' cooperative is on the point of formation, can be of the greatest benefit in enabling us to appreciate the potential significance of cooperation in our town.

I hope everyone interested in our cooperatives will attend the Institute.

Donald H. Wagstaff, President Greenbelt Citizens Association:

The second annual cooperative Institute promises to be two days of edification and entertainment, judging from a copy of the program which I have just received. Every detail seems to have been carefully planned; therefore one could safely predict the success of the Institute.

The striking thing that a mental preview of the program seems to present is that those participating, from chairman Smith to the Boy Scout ushers, are doing their part because of their devotion to the service of the community and the Greenbelt Cooperative movement. This type of unselfish service will bring desired results.

It is my humble desire that every citizen of Greenbelt will catch the spirit of those who have planned the Institute and reward their efforts by reserving these two days for full and active participation on this program.

Sulo Laakso, General Manager Greenbelt Stores:

The Second Annual Cooperative Institute offers a rare opportunity for the residents of Greenbelt to get first-hand knowledge of the consumer cooperative movement, both through listening to the list of excellent speakers and through the opportunities for partaking in discussions. Everyone who possibly can should try to attend it.

Percy S. Brown, President, Consumer Distribution Corporation:

The Cooperative Institute which is to be held at Greenbelt, October 7 and 8 will be of inestimable value to the citizens of Greenbelt in that they will have an opportunity to hear from authoritative sources about the progress that cooperatives are making in various fields, and the opportunities that exist for cooperative development in Greenbelt. I hope that every citizen of Greenbelt may attend one or more of the sessions.

Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture:

I welcome the opportunity to extend my best wishes on the occasion of the opening of the Second Annual Cooperative Institute at Greenbelt, Maryland.

The successful establishment of the cooperative movement in your community marks its real beginning in a truer sense than the date on which the buildings were finished and opened for occupancy. Government can help make community plans and construct roads, buildings, and parks, but only the people can make a successful community. Government can help a cooperative organization but cooperation itself grows out of the spirit and the wisdom of the people.

Now, as you become shareholders and owners of the cooperative enterprises in your community, you accept the obligation and responsibility for their successful direction. You are accepting the opportunity to prove the real worth and practicability of cooperation.

You have demonstrated your ability to work together for the common good. Cooperative effort in your community is based upon the sincere desire of the people to bring about better conditions for all and the willingness to shoulder the work and responsibility necessary to make your efforts succeed. I am confident that Greenbelt will continue to provide an outstanding demonstration of economic democracy in action.

Will W. Alexander, Farm Security Administration:

It is with pleasure that I send greetings to the Second Annual Greenbelt Cooperative Institute. The meeting there of leaders and members of cooperative organizations from the surrounding area is particularly fitting at this time. The Greenbelt community is now entering into that phase of its cooperative activity which will bring its people into complete ownership of their consumers organization. Here again neighbors are joining together in an enterprise which is dedicated not to the welfare of any one individual, but to the welfare of all.

The real value of cooperation lies in the practical possibilities which it holds for both material and spiritual improvement. Cooperation, to be sure, is good business. It brings to thousands of families

A Week in Sports

by
John C. Maffey

With the baseball season rapidly drawing to a close, the World Series being the only diamond activity remaining, many eyes will turn to the College football front where everybody's alma mater's strength and possibilities will be discussed over and over again. Last Saturday College football blew the roof right off, with many star-studded games in all sections of the country. Leaning to the trend of eliminating the opening "breathers", several outstanding football outfits started right off with major engagements, and many interesting battles were read about in the morning papers.

Let's put our finger on a few young gents who will bear watching in the next ten weeks to come. After a year's seasoning on their respective freshman squads, many sophomore wonders, and unknowns, will be beginning to work their way into the newspaper headlines. Many coaches like to make it known that they have a few good men on their squad, but as a general thing they dislike to predict success for newcomers because the youngsters are immediately put on a spot.

First, we have in the middle west, Bill DeCorrent, sensational Austin High School player of Chicago, who will endeavor to strut his stuff for Northwestern this year. A triple threat man, an accurate passer, powerful kicker, and sensational broken field runner, Bill will have to get started early to maintain his reputation acquired while attending Austin High.

Then we have Robert Thornton in the Southwest. Thornton will probably play one of the guard positions for Santa Clara, and a better man from the freshman ranks no college could ask for. A raging tiger, with great hands, good speed and terrific power. Thornton is going to be a big help to Buck Shaw.

In the East, all the men on Rose Hill rave about Jim Blumenstock. A product of New Jersey, he is on the bulky side, although weighing only 180 pounds, and is said to be the greatest passer and kicker Fordham ever has had. Angling six kicks out of bounds within the ten yard line last year against the N. Y. U. frosh, and throwing a 50 yard touchdown pass while surrounded by several Army freshmen, are feats worthy of note.

Also in the East we have Maupin of Army, Jones of Pittsburg, Natowich of Holy Cross, and Hapkins of Syracuse, while down in the southwest, where football is a religion, such prospects as Odle of Texas Christian, Goforth of Rice, Russell of Baylor, and Lawhon of Arkansas are threatening to break into print.

Other good prospects include Robinson of Southern California, Smith of Minnesota, Albert of Stanford, Hatcher of California U., Johnson of Southern Methodist, Wilson of Baylor, Cannon of Tennessee, McDonough of Duke, Keltner of Georgia, and Jacobs of Oklahoma.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE PLAY

The Third Series of the Greenbelt Softball League is now history, with 3 teams finishing up tied for first place. The Blues did it. They beat the Cavedwellers last Wednesday night 6 to 1 behind the 2 hit pitching of Trumbule to deadlock the Browns, Cee Men and Cavedwellers.

It was then necessary to have a playoff by the three teams to decide the winner, and the Cavedwellers beat the Cee men in the first game on Thursday by the score of 11 to 0. On Friday night, Barker didn't find the Browns so easy, and after an interesting hard fought game the Cavedwellers won it in the 6th inning when they scored 2 runs to break a 3 to 3 deadlock and eventually win out by the score of 5 to 3. So the Cavedwellers play the Cliffdwellers in the Greenbelt World Series this year.

MRS. GREENBELT

A Section For Greenbelt Women Who Plan,
Written Of Them, By Them, For Them

Good Evening, Mrs. Greenbelt;

I know that you are busy with your fall cleaning. I know that winter rugs and draperies will soon come out of the mothballs along with Sadie's snow suit, and Tom's corduroy knickers. I know how busy you are.

But do take the time to make the coming weeks count for something else. Take the kids for walks in the woods—the lake path will be increasingly lovely until winter comes. Hold what afternoon meetings you can at the picnic grounds, to the tune of a wood fire and a hot dog afterwards. Take advantage of these last few weeks of good weather. We must stay inside so much when the snow flies.

And Washington is the center of the world's interest now. Take the time, somehow, to get in to the Capitol for some of the debates on the Neutrality issue. I don't know whether it can be done, but at least make the effort. I almost said I didn't care how you felt about the issue at stake, but that's not true. I do care, but I'm not going to inflict my personal opinions on you. The main thing is to think it out as best you are able. Have an opinion on one side or the other, but have an opinion. And then see if you can get in for some of the debates on the question. This is an opportunity you can't miss, if you can help it.

See you in the Gallery!

—Peggie Arness

Want the recipe for the cookies that won a blue ribbon at the Fair? Mrs. Jos. D. Bargas is responsible for this one:

RUM AND BUTTER COOKIES

3/4 cup butter	1/2 tsp. rum extract
1/2 cup sugar	2 to 2 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 egg yolk	1/4 tsp. salt

Cream butter and sugar, beat in egg yolk, then beat in extract. Sift salt with flour and add. Put through Cookie Press onto aluminum cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes at 425 to 450°F.

Mrs. Bargas says that, while the cookie press gives interesting shapes to the cookies, it is not necessary to use one as the cookie dough drops well from the spoon and bakes evenly.

We're not surprised: In the course of a year, American women wear out approximately 525,000,000 pairs of stockings, chiefly due to runs in them.

PUPPET SHOW FEATURES BETTER BUYERS MEETING

The Better Buyers are just as smart at buying themselves a good time as they are at marketing for food and clothing. Last week's meeting proved their versatility.

The get-together in the Social Room on the 27th went along on dancing feet. Frank Harper and his helpers put their puppets through their paces in the usual smooth and amazingly complete style. After a few announcements, mainly dealing with the coming Institute, the chairs were pushed back and the room turned over to folk dancing, under the leadership of Howard Custer. There were so many takers that the Virginia Reel had to be split into two sections, dancing simultaneously. After a couple of bouts with the Quadrille and the Paul Jones, refreshments in the form of tea and cookies were served.

An impromptu but thoroughly delightful program of songs by Mrs. Herbert Hall rounded out the evening. Mr. Hall's "laughing song" proved to be the hit of the evening and it is to be hoped that he will bow to pressure and make it a feature of the coming Institute.

NIGHT HARBOR

Tonight the tide was sleek and shy
As it approached the shore;
It nudged the boats in passing by,
And whispered secrets from its store
Of salient mystery.

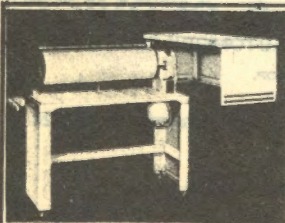

It, laughing, stirred the seaweed, deep
Beneath the surface gray;
It urged the sea gulls not to weep—
And softly, mocking, sank away
To more mischievous sea.

CITIZENS ASSOCIATION DANCE SUCCESSFUL

325 Greenbelters danced to the enjoyable strains of Chris Hockman's orchestra last Saturday night, in spite of rainy weather. The dance was one of the most successful ever held here, and officers of the Association hope for an even larger crowd next time.

With The Players

"Three Cornered Moon", the Players first production of the new season, is now another drama chevron to their credit. It couldn't help being well liked—it was written with fine understanding and the audience last Tuesday and Wednesday was well pleased with the interpretation given by the Greenbelt Players.

Another reason for this story's popularity, incidentally, is graphically shown in the results of the survey conducted by the group at the recent Fair. Of the many visitors who called at the Players booth, over one hundred filled out the survey blanks made available to determine the desire of the residents concerning the local production of different types and names of plays. In type of play, comedy and the drama were most liked. "Three Cornered Moon" fitted this to the letter.

The survey of the names of plays revealed that "It Can't Happen Here", "Yes, My Darling Daughter", "Petticoat Fever", and "Death Takes a Holiday", were among those receiving the greatest number of checks.

In the brief period before the Players' next production—which, by the way, will be recognized as one of the finest contributions of a celebrated modern writer—the group will relax in a post-play party! It will be a planned affair here in town, with refreshments, dancing, games, and the like. It will probably take place on or about October 10, and will accommodate Players and their relatives, or "dates".

Next will come the regular business meeting of October 17, and again all who are interested in joining the group are welcome to drop in and so state. Meetings are conducted in the room beneath the Theater stage, and commence at 8:00 P.M.

READ WHAT THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION SAYS ABOUT THE DIAPERS I WEAR!

In their book of instruction for prospective mothers the American Medical Association—the voice of final authority in the medical field—says:

"If only a small supply of diapers is provided (in the layette) constant washing is necessary, and there is danger that the diaper used will not be thoroughly dry. Probably more colds in babies are due to damp diapers than to any other cause. Chafing is often caused by using a second time, without washing it, a diaper that has been wet, but not soiled. No diaper, however clean it may appear, should be used a second time without washing. One should have plenty of diapers so that there may always be one that is clean and dry. In large cities the diaper washing question has been solved by special diaper service."

JUST THINK OF IT! PERFECT PEACE OF MIND FOR ONLY A FEW CENTS A DAY!

Now you can have a supply of fluffy, fresh diapers always on hand, supplied at a rate that will surprise you. No diapers to buy. You pay only a moderate charge for the service. If you have already purchased a supply of diapers, suitable arrangements can be made. An attractive disposal container for the nursery is furnished as part of the service.

Your Baby needs this protection! Your Baby can now have the same hospital-type service at the low rate of only a few cents a day... actually cheaper than unsafe, old fashioned, home diaper washing.

You owe it to your Baby, yourself, and your husband, to investigate this service, which is not merely a laundry but a separate institution devoted exclusively to sterilizing and supplying diapers.

Telephone today and put an end to your diaper worries!

You can take chances with anything else but your baby

GREENBELT SCORES ANOTHER BULL'S EYE

Misses Lillian Carlson and Anne Graefe, of New Haven, Connecticut, who have been visiting Miss Marjorie Jane Ketcham, are enthusiastic about Greenbelt. In spite of much sight-seeing in Washington and a trip to Mt. Vernon, their conversation concerns itself largely with the town.

According to them, its charm lies in its quiet orderliness in such close proximity to noisy, busy Washington, its rainbow coloring and the friendliness of its people.

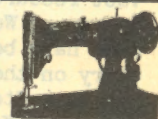

Following the presidential custom toward distinguished visitors, they have been the guests of honor at a hot dog roast at the lake; Marjorie Jane Ketcham has entertained for them at her home and they have also seen Washington from the air.

We hope that their stay at the World's Fair on the return trip to Connecticut will do nothing to efface their liking for Greenbelt, and that they will come back for another vacation. We like people who think us charming.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Lastner, 19-P Ridge Road last Thursday morning, September 28, at the Greenbelt Hospital. Frances Patricia, the new arrival, weighed 7 pounds, 9 ounces at birth.

Seven Seas on a Shoestring

Dwight Long

In the autumn of 1934 Dwight Long left Seattle in the 32-foot ketch, Idle Hour, with a one man crew and a dog-mascot. His purpose was to circle the globe. It took him four years and 35,000 miles of travel in all kinds of weather to accomplish this feat. By the irony of fate the author safely weathered the storms and dangerous seas only to have his boat wrecked in the hurricane that swept the New England coast. Seven Seas on a Shoestring is a straight-forward book that tells a tale of adventure that should appeal to all.

GUN CLUB

At the recent Fair twelve persons submitted their names as shooters interested in participating in the activities of the Gun Club when actual range operation is under way. That brings the total to 72 individuals, including two ladies. And, incidentally, let not the idea exist that the fair sex is barred from membership. There are a great many fine "marks-women" in the world, as shown by the fact that hundreds of them were present at this year's matches at Camp Perry, Ohio—shooters' paradise. Perhaps a ladies' team can be organized, coached by the male marksmen, and get out and win laurels for Greenbelt. However, this should be brought up only after a fully qualified men's team is in competition form.

The firing line at the range swiftly nears completion. After that item is cleared, the target racks will be erected and the backstop straightened and arranged for drainage. Then, when the Town Engineer has the sod delivered and the members place it on new facilities and services which would have been impossible for each family to secure alone. But it is more than good business. It is a way of life, a truly Christian way of incorporating into one's own efforts at self-satisfaction, the interests and needs of his fellow man. The richness of cooperative community activity flows from the power of its motive as well as from the material advantages of its method. Simply stated, cooperation directs man's want—satisfying efforts into channels where they will be most helpful to his neighbors, and brings to the cooperator an unmistakable feeling of satisfaction at participating in something a great deal bigger than himself.

In many areas where destitution and privation are mocking the efforts of our modern democracy to maintain adequate living standards for the people, cooperation offers one proven method for making democracy achieve its ends. Enlightened self-interest is at the heart of this democratic method. It is opposed to the selfishness which would have us stand idly by while thousands of our neighbors are denied their share of our vast resources because they have no way of helping themselves.

We must not forget, however, that most of the failures which have occurred in the cooperative movement have been the result of poor management. We must develop business leadership and managerial ability to carry on the manifold activities required in large-scale organization. This practical aspect of cooperation has too often been overlooked.

You who are participating in the Greenbelt Cooperative Institute have a rare opportunity to consider the challenging problems which cooperative management sets before you. Through constructive conferences such as this one at Greenbelt, leaders in cooperation are aided in carrying on their activities intelligently and successfully. Their problem is clarified and their program is strengthened. I wish you the greatest success in working together these two days, and regret that I am unable to be with you.
